Society

Hello Everyone.

What eventful times we're living through! I hope you are all keeping safe, healthy and happy, or as much as circumstances will allow. I'm sure some of you will be feeling deprived of your monthly Egyptology fix, but you will understand why we have had to cancel the rest of our current season. Even allowing for an easing of lockdown restrictions we have to accept that things will not be back to normal, or perhaps a new normal, for a long while. We have already been told that Oasis Academy, Lordshill, will not be open for business at least until September. At present, we are planning to have some sort of relaunch then but we can't give any further details yet. Of course, we will keep you informed through email and this newsletter but, in the meantime, I've put together this bumper quiz edition of Hotep to keep you going. The answers to many of the questions can be found by trawling our website, especially looking back through the folder of past issues of Hotep, or using some of the suggested links to other websites.

In-house entertainment. Tomb of Anherkhau

Now's the time to get your scribe's equipment and a sheet of papyrus to write on, and perhaps a nice glass of wine or a bottle of artisan beer (or soft drink of your choice), and settle back to have a go at the following. There's no prize as this is just a diversion from the harsh realities of isolation. The answers will be published in the next Hotep.

Have fun!

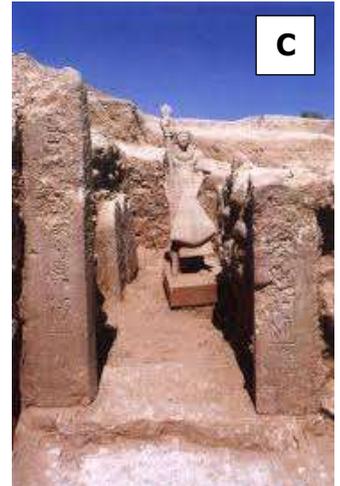

Suggested exercise routine? Tomb of Antefoker.

Scribe of the goose census,
Tomb of Nebamun

WHERE?

Where is it?
